

What almost every therapist who works in NHS-funded services shares is the need to collect data on the outcomes of our work with clients. While not quibbling with this requirement, Neville Tomlinson centres on the aims of data collection in IAPT services. In a personal view, Neville compares the goals of the IAPT initiative and its links to getting people back to work with those of the principles of the 'Recovery Model' which espouses a holistic view, centred on the individual.

Also in this issue, we welcome Zubeida Ali as new Chair of BACP Healthcare. In Zubeida's first report as Chair, she pays tribute to the division's outgoing Chair, Tina Campbell – her thanks for all Tina's hard work are shared by all those involved in the division.

Zubeida would also love to hear your views on any issues you would like the executive to be aware of; and a similar message applies to this journal – your views on any articles in this issue are very welcome.

Sarah Hovington, Editor
hcpj.editorial@bacp.co.uk

CONTENTS

FEATURES

CBT - MORE FAMILIAR THAN YOU THINK? 08

As Michael Owens explores some of the similarities between therapeutic approaches, he reckons it's time we put our differences to one side

HEALING THE WOUNDS OF TRAUMA, SHAME AND GRIEF 14

Through a case study, Elaine Beaumont demonstrates the effectiveness of using Compassion-Focused therapy as an adjunct to psychotherapy

PAYMENT BY RESULTS: BY WHAT - OR WHOSE - MEASURE? 20

Neville Tomlinson presents a personal view of how counselling and psychotherapy are measured

APPRAISING INTERNET SELF HELP 24

A study by David Stuart examined the quality of websites offering mindfulness resources

FROM COLLABORATION TO CONSORTIUM 28

Louise Robinson weighs up the options for third sector engagement in the new NHS commissioning landscape

FROM BASE TO GOLD: THE ALCHEMY OF THE GROUP 30

Valerie Garrett looks at the transforming power of the supervision group on the unconscious processes operating within it

REGULARS

FROM THE EDITOR	02
NEWS	04
CHAIR'S REPORT - BACP Healthcare: Zubeida Ali	06
DEVELOPMENT REPORT - BACP Healthcare: Louise Robinson	07
RESEARCH DIGEST	27
GP VIEWPOINT: John Hague	36
COUNSELLING IN PRIMARY CARE: Richard Mason	37
THIRD SECTOR PERSPECTIVE: Michael Lilley	38
RESOURCES	39
RESUMÉ: Lee Partis	42
BACP HEALTHCARE ROUND-UP	43