Recruiting for participants!
If you identify as a Gender and Sexuality Diverse therapist and work in university counselling services, this might be of interest!

- Are you a therapist who identifies as gender and sexuality diverse (GSD)? Do you or have you worked in a university counselling service? Are you interested in contributing to a study that addresses a significant gap in the literature around this area of practice? My study will add to the understanding of how therapist experiences of being GSD may impact on our clinical work in relation to the psychosocial assumptions of matching therapist and client.
- If you are interested in finding out more about how you can participate in this doctoral research, and have any questions please email me, Jo Levy, at: j.levy@essex.ac.uk
