

Research Study – Participants Required!

Are you an LGBTQ+ counsellor or psychotherapist navigating decisions about being “out” with clients?

I’m a queer therapist in training and MSc student at London Metropolitan University, conducting research exploring how LGBTQ+ counsellors and psychotherapists in the UK navigate their own identity and authenticity; decisions about being “out” with clients, how this impacts the therapeutic relationship and ethical dilemmas in practice.

One off, confidential online interview (60 minutes)

Open to LGBTQ+ counsellors and psychotherapists practicing in the UK

Participation is voluntary and fully anonymised
